Copel Distribuição was awarded as the best distribution company in Brazil

Companhia Paranaense de Energia – COPEL, a company that generates, transmits, distributes and sells power, with shares listed on the NYSE (ELPVY, ELP), B3 (CPLE3, CPLE5, CPLE6) and the LATIBEX (XCOP), hereby informs its shareholders and the market in general that Copel Distribuição was awarded as the best distribution company in Brazil and the best distribution company in the South Region of the country by the Aneel customer satisfaction index - Índice Aneel de Satisfação do Consumidor (IASC).

Over the last four years, this was the second time Copel was awarded as the best distribution company in Brazil, and the third time it was awarded as the best distribution company in the South Region, according to the same index. Furthermore, in 2017, Copel received the Abradee award for the fourth consecutive year and, for the fifth time in the last seven years, the Cier award as the best distribution company in Latin America.

The Aneel index is achieved through satisfaction surveys that are conducted with clients throughout Brazil, measuring the consumer satisfaction rate for services provided.

Copel is considered the most transparent state-owned company in Brazil

Copel was also considered the most transparent state-owned company in Brazil according to a study conducted by global organization Transparency International, entitled "Transparency in Corporate Reporting (TRAC)". The study was aimed exclusively at organizations based in Brazil and measured the transparency levels of largest 100 Brazilian companies and the top 10 Brazilian banks. The report, dated January 30, 2018, is available at the organization's website. Copel appears as #8 in the overall ranking,
